December finds us returning to reading extension. We've been alternating months, between reading and math. During our extension time, we combine both classes into 8 groups, which then work on a different set of skills. We are very lucky to have 8 teachers, which allows us to make our groups small. Sometimes we provide one-on-one instruction, other times we give enrichment activities, and often we review previously taught skills. Utilizing our time in this way helps us to tailor each student's time and allows us to better reach them where they currently are.
